JOINT MEETING
GTER / GTS - REGIONAL

The Internet has only reached its current level of development because it counts on an exchange of best practices among interested parties. Brazil's GTER (Working Group on Network Engineering and Operation) and GTS (Working Group on Network Security) have met since 1994 and 2003, respectively, to promote this type of interaction.

These meetings are held twice a year. In the first semester, the meetings attract interest from various interest groups, enabling the event to take place in various Brazilian cities and to receive institutional financial support. In the second half of the year, the joint meeting is part of the Week of Internet Infrastructure in Brazil, together with other events.

Target audience: Prominent professionals from a number of network and Internet engineering, operation and security in Brazil. Participants range from technical operations personnel to management-level attendees. College students in engineering, computer science and related fields make up 10% of our audience.

WHY BE A SPONSOR?

This is a unique opportunity to communicate with a selected audience focused on topics related to the Brazilian Internet.

In sponsoring the event your company or institution adds value to its brand: the value of being associated with an initiative whose organizer is the body in charge of implementing the findings and projects of the CGI.br, which in turn coordinates and integrates all Internet services in Brazil.

In this way, you will associate your brand with an institution directly responsible for proposing norms, procedures, studies and technical benchmarks, as well as leadership and coordination of various Internet-related issues directly related to the theme of the event.

In addition, a sponsorship by your company will also demonstrate your commitment to facing and responding to issues related to the themes of the events presented.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE SPONSORSHIP

1. Confirmation of interest in acting as a sponsor must be submitted in writing and will be granted in the chronological order of contract signings. Once the sponsorship is approved, the sponsor shall transmit to the organization of the event, using the e-mail eventos@nic.br, a high-resolution image of the desired logotype, along with details of how the image is to be used. Vector images are acceptable.

2. The deadline for the delivery of the logotype, properly formatted, in time for manufacturing of publicity materials, is 20 days prior to the date of the event, except for sponsorship quotas that include the fabrication of T-shirts, for which the deadline is 50 days before the event begins.

3. The name or logo of the sponsor will be included on banners, pocket guides, the Web site, and other forms of association of corporate image with the event, as agreed upon in the contract and depending on the chosen level of sponsorship.

4. The division of advertising space for the display of the image shall be proportional to the category of sponsorship selected and will be distributed as illustrated below. The entire area is to be taken into account, not only the font size. Vertical and horizontal dimensions may vary, so long as overall proportions are maintained.

![Proportion for advertising division]

5. The list of subscriber e-mail addresses will not be divulged under any circumstances, in order to avoid the sending and receiving of unsolicited messages. This policy is non-negotiable. Platinum quota sponsors may compile their own e-mail list by means of a raffle, which is permitted only to sponsors of this level. This activity shall be organized by the sponsor and requires prior approval from the organization of the event.

6. Sponsor status does not entail the right to present lectures at the event. A sponsor that wishes to speak at the event must submit its presentation proposal to the Program Committee within the same deadline and terms established for presentation calls. Presentations focused on advertising products and solutions will be summarily rejected.

7. No distribution of extra publicity materials will be allowed during the event, and no posters will be displayed on the premises of the event. Each level of sponsorship determines how the sponsor image will be used in event materials. Platinum sponsors will maintain a table supporting advertising materials and small gifts it wishes to distribute.

8. Differential categories of sponsorship may be negotiated and will be treated case by case.

9. The organization of the event reserves the right to reject the participation of any would-be sponsor that it deems unsuitable for or irrelevant to the purpose of the event.
